PHOTOBIOMODULATION

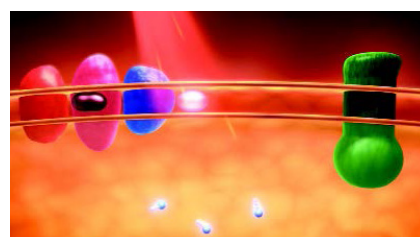

Photobiomodulation (PBM) is a light therapy that uses red and near infra-red light to induce photochemical reactions in the body on the molecular and cellular levels. Summus Medical Laser protocols combine wavelengths, pulsing and power to achieve unparalleled therapeutic effects including modulation of inflammation, reduction in pain, accelerated tissue healing and increased circulation.

1 Light interacts with tissues at a cellular level

2 Improves the transport of nutrients creating the ideal healing environment

3 Alleviates pain and restores function

BIOLOGICAL EFFECTS OF LASER THERAPY

- Tissue repair
- Normalization of cellular function
- Faster wound healing
- Reduced fibrous tissue formation
- Modulates inflammation
- Analgesic
- Improved vascular activity
- Increased metabolic activity
- Improved nerve function
- Immunoregulation
- Trigger point resolution
- Acupuncture point stimulation

4 WAVELENGTH LASER TECHNOLOGY

Wavelengths are distributed specific to the condition for the optimal customized treatment plan using phased wavelength control.

650 nm

Targets Superficial Receptors

- Accelerates Surface Healing
- Increases Cellular Regeneration
- Reduces Antibiotic Usage
- Shortens Healing Time

810 nm

Targets Mitochondria

- Increases Conversion of O₂ to ATP
- Accelerates Cellular Metabolism
- Deepest Tissue Penetration
- Stimulates Immune System

915 nm

Targets Hemoglobin

- Increases O₂ Delivery to Tissues
- Improves Pain Relief
- Enhances Healing Effects

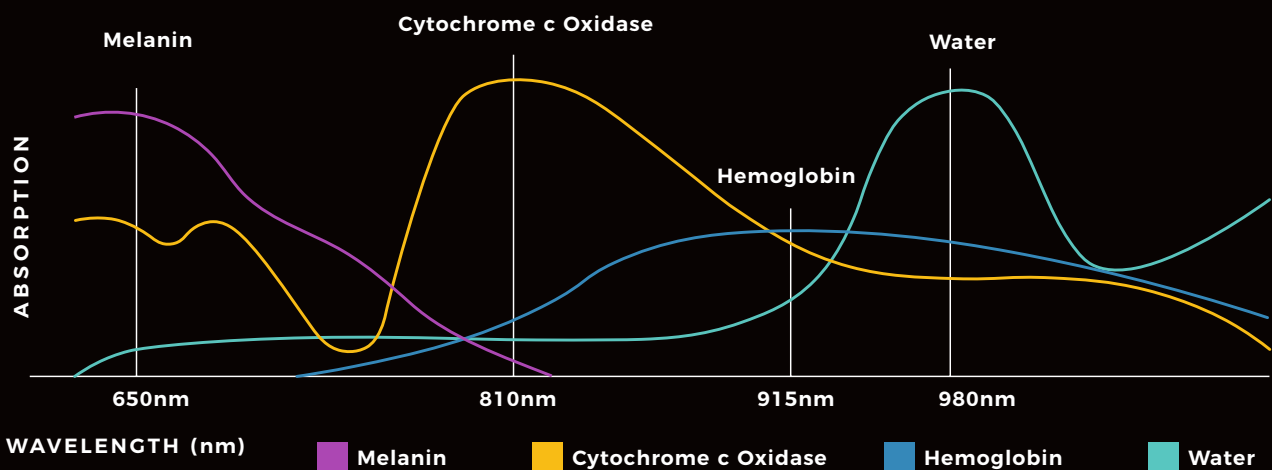

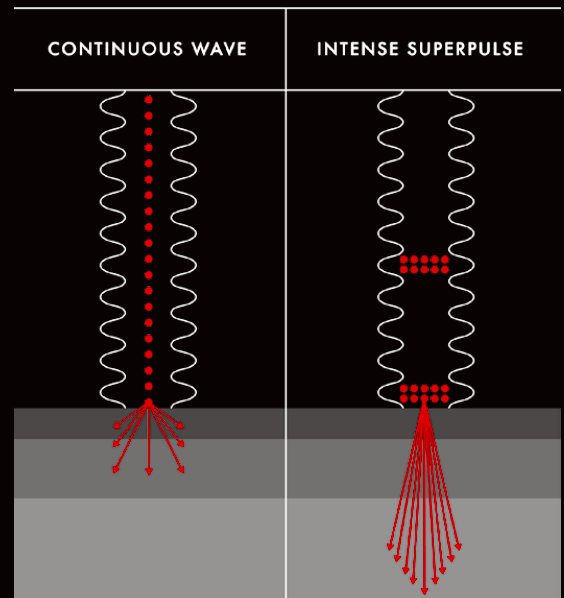

980 nm

Targets Water in Blood

- Improves Circulation
- Pain Relief
- Decreases Morbidity
- Faster Recovery

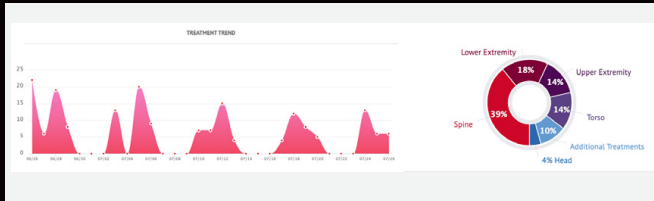

INTENSE SUPERPULSE (ISP) MODE

Delivers a peak of 30W of laser energy to deeper tissues mitigating power heat build-up.
